Dear Sir,

The Servants tax came into force under the Madras District Municipalities Act III of 1897, and was not levied until the month of August in that year

2. In April 1898 the tax was demanded by the Superintending Engineer, Nilgiri Hill works in his letter dated 26th April 1898 No 410 said the Dewan was "not liable"

3. The papers were laid before the Municipal Council, and the following resolution was passed by it on the 14th May 1898

"The Council is of opinion that under the provisions of Section 96. A of the Municipal Amendment Act III of 1897, the Dewan to His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore is liable to the payment of the Servants Tax".

4. This resolution was duly communicated to the Superintending Engineer, but still no payment was made.

5. The Dewan like the Members of the Madras Council, the Chief Secretary and other officers is a salaried officer, and as he pays no profession tax (See Section 47 and Section 96(a) of the Municipal Act) to the municipality, he is liable to the Servants tax.

6. The fact that the Mysore Government pays the House and Water tax on Bhavani House, does not exempt the salaried officer or officers who may occupy the house from the Servants tax, in as much as they are "not liable to pay (Section 96 a) the House and water tax.—
